BCE Operational Approach to Centre Accreditation

Internal document used during Centre Induction training outlining the process BCE grants Centre approval to operate or engage in BCE qualifications. Induction training is established to ensure that Centres meet minimum standards to protect learners and the public at large. Accreditation standards are regarded as optimal and achievable, designed to encourage continuous improvement efforts; a process by which BCE evaluates and recognises institutions as meeting pre-determined requirements or criteria after receiving additional training and demonstrate competence beyond the minimum requirements.
